Organization

Series I. Diverse Records and Publications

Series II. African American Records

Series III. Photographs

Series IV. Postcards

Series V. Oversized Materials

The collection is organized into five series: Diverse Records and Publications; African American Records; Photographs; Postcards; Oversized Materials. However, in spite of it being an artificial collection, the original order of the collection was maintained as closely as possible and the donated documents were housed in folders and then in boxes with general series headings applied afterward. Since much of the materials found in the collection were acquired at estate sales, garage sales, etc., the processors tried to maintain the integrity of the subject matter, in spite of format differences, in order to keep any intrinsic collection groups together. The only rearrangement came in the grouping of like formats, i.e. photographs, postcards, etc.

Scope and Content

This is an artificial collection of books, pamphlets, papers, documents, photographs, postcards, and other ephemera collected by Wade Hall. Included in the collection are: an 1814 petition from Knox Co. suing for damages from the Federal Government, company papers of various business from 1853 to 1925, a turn-of-the century advertisement printed in German, an 1895 Washington Co. Grand Jury list, and Ku Klux Klan documents. Additionally there is much information concerning various Kentucky (especially Louisville) high schools and colleges, a number of pamphlets about Louisville, and a great deal of religious records.

However, the main outstanding group of records contained in the collection are the varied and different "African American" papers. Not only are religious records, educational records, and secular publications included in this sub-set, but also, agricultural fair records, slave records, African American Civil Liberty and Women's Club publications, Pullman Co. publications, and a program for a 1940 Louisville, KY baseball game between the Homestead Grays and the Cuban All-Stars. There are also numerous African American photographs.
